

Ugly Duckling Presse

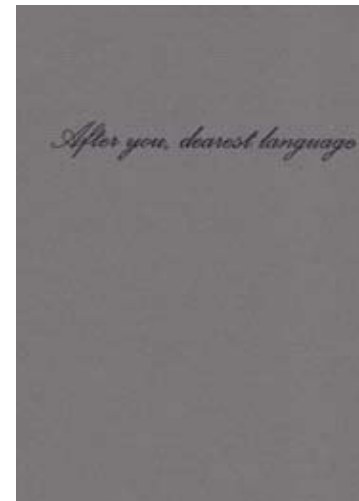

Marisol Limón Martínez AFTER YOU, DEAREST LANGUAGE

$16 | ISBN: 978-1-933254-13-5
Poetry | 104 pages | perfect-bound

Originally Published: 2005
New Printing: 2010

Conceived as a sort of hypertext in book form, After you, dearest language is an alphabetical index of the author's dreams and visions.

CAR I am driving a car with my MOTHER on LOOP 1604. Dead MEN and WOMEN are propped up against the HIGHWAY WALLS covered in BLOOD. I think they are dead. I can't tell if they're DOLLS or if they're real. (excerpt)

PRAISE FOR AFTER YOU, DEAREST LANGUAGE

"...Martinez's book works as both a dream index and an index of dreams. Martinez converts the associative impulse of the Surrealists to a literal cross-reference, a gesture which is also the book's unique contribution to the abecedarian trend..." —JOYELLE MCSWEENEY

"This linguistic navigation, much like Barthes by Barthes and Jean-Paul Sartre's The Words, articulates one's (often inarticulate, and yes, mysterious) interior and its relationship to exteriority." —CLAUDIA MILIAN

"A subtle and beautifully-crafted exploration of a personal language... but clothed in song, clothed in the visionary power of poetry. Language as a method against evil ..." —GUILLERMO JUAN PARRA

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Marisol Limón Martínez is a visual artist and musician from San Antonio, Texas. She has been the recipient of The Pollock Krasner grant, a National Endowment of the Arts grant for an artist's book residency at The Women's Studio Workshop, and a Ford Foundation grant in performing arts. Her books include After you, dearest language (Ugly Duckling Presse) and First Space, Then Structures (Nothing Moments Press). Her work is in the collections of the Museum of Modern Art, New York, Yale University, and the University of Texas at Austin, amongst others. As a pianist and back-up vocalist, she has toured internationally with Scott Matthew. She is now working on a solo music project and an illustrated novel. Marisol lives in New York City.

ABOUT UGLY DUCKLING PRESSE

Ugly Duckling Presse is a nonprofit art & publishing collective producing small to mid-size editions of new poetry, translations, lost works and artists' books. For more about UDP, visit us at www.uglyducklingpresse.org.

Media Contact:

Anna Moschovakis • anna@uglyducklingpresse.org
